Burns Fatal to Young Mother

Dies After Fire Razes Her Home

Blast Blamed At N. Liberty

By WINTHROP RUGGLES

A 31-year-old mother of four children died last night of burns suffered late yesterday when her eight-room frame house was destroyed by fire at North Liberty, south of Butler.

The victim, Mrs. Ila Hunter Leedy, died in General hospital at 8:15 p. m. She was burned over most of her body.

She was the only person in the house when the fire started at 4:30 yesterday, neighbors said. Her two boys and two little girls were playing in the yard. Her husband, Russell E. Leedy, was finishing his school bus route, which he drives in addition to farming his 80-acre farm.

Mrs. Leedy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Hunter, said she had left their home, a quarter of a mile away five minutes before the fire was noticed.

The Hunters said they saw the Leedy home engulfed in flames, as though "an explosion had occurred."

Mrs. Leedy's parents ran to the scene, helped her out of the burning house and summoned an ambulance.

Sperry Ritchie, chief of the Fredericktown Volunteer Fire Department which answered the alarm, said he believed the fire was caused by pouring kerosene on a fire since "a terrific explosion, by all appearances, had occurred and all of the windows in the house were blown out."

The fire chief said however, no kerosene can was found in the embers.

SAVE BARN

"The home was completely covered with flames, when we arrived," Ritchie said, "but the volunteers did save the barn which was on fire."

Surviving Mrs. Leedy are her husband, Russell E. Leedy; two daughters, Betty June, two years old, and Linda Louise, four; two sons, Charles, 11, and David, six; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Hunter, of North Liberty; two sisters, Mrs. Faye Stake, of Loudonville, and Mrs. Irene Darling, of Perrysville, and one brother, Eugene Hunter, of Butler.

Services will be conducted by Rev. John Pfhaler of the North Liberty Methodist church in that church Friday at 2 p. m. Burial will be in the North Liberty cemetery.

The body is at the Snyder Funeral Home in Butler and will be removed to Leon Hunter's home where friends may call tonight.

'Boss' Enters Bribery Case

COLUMBUS — (INS) — State Liquor Director Oscar L. Fleckner was to testify today in the bribery trial of former Permit Chief A. E. Oppenheimer and Scioto county Republican Chairman Hugh H. Ruel in Columbus.

However, primary interest was centered around the identity of a mysterious "boss." Franklin county Prosecutor Ralph J. Bartlett said his name might be made known later in the trial.

Oppenheimer is accused of soliciting a $2,300 bribe from London hotel operator Gilbert Shively and a $300 bribe from Howard McCall, a Springfield cafe owner. Ruel is charged with asking Shively for bribes of $1,500 and $1,000. Both have denied the charges.

Nuns Flee Romania

MUNICH — (INS) — U. S. military authorities said today that 58 German Catholic nuns have fled Romania because they fear persecution. The nuns are expected to join a convent near Munich on Thursday.

Spends 10 Years In 'Tomb'

NEW YORK —(AP)— A shaggy-bearded man of 33, dug out after ten years of fantastic solitude in a dank cubbyhole, yearned today to return to the tomb-like cubicle in which his mother sealed him when war broke out.

Shoeless, filthy, his clothes in rags, Paul Makushak, one-time college student, stood on wobbly legs and blinked into the unaccustomed glare of electric lights.

"I liked it in there," he said. "I'd like to go back. I don't care about the outside world." Police took him to a hospital.

The man told a strange story of voluntary exile since 1939—when his mother sealed him off from the world with a wall of wood and plaster at the outbreak of World War II.

Makushak spent the 10 years in a tiny walled-in cubicle built in the corner of a littered third floor bedroom in a brownstone house in the Greenpoint section of Brooklyn.

His father, who runs a tailor shop in the same building, said he never knew the man was imprisoned in the house.

The cubicle, about three feet wide and five feet long—scarcely big enough to hold Makushak when he stretched on the floor to sleep—had been devised, police said, because his mother presumably wanted him to escape being drafted.

VAGUE ABOUT WAR

Makushak, however, was vague about the war.

"The draft?" he replied to questioning by Brooklyn District Attorney Miles F. McDonald. "I don't know about the draft. That was in 1917, wasn't it?"

He said he didn't "believe in violence," and added "I don't know" when asked if he would have gone in the Army.

The story of Makushak's imprisonment came to the attention of police last night after the mother, 58-year-old Mrs. Anna Makushak, entered a hospital.

She asked a neighborhood woman to go and care for her son—whose only contact with the world was a hole in the top of his tomb, through which he was fed.

The neighbor told police about him.

With crowbars, police bashed down the thin plaster wall that sealed Makushak off, and lifted him back into the world.

Tired of Car, Drives It Into Ohio River

CINCINNATI —(UP)— A 25-year-old New Orleans man drove his blue 1947 convertible into the Ohio river here early today because "I got tired of the car."

Charles McClees, who told police he was a merchant marine engineer, drove the auto off the public landing. McLees, wet to the bone but unhurt, explained:

"I got tired of the car. I decided to get rid of it."

He did not say just what it was about the car that made him tired of it.

John Lewis Seeks Peaceful Parley

WASHINGTON —(UP)— John L. Lewis said today he hopes the United Mine Workers can negotiate ne wsoft and hard coal contracts without strikes, financial loss or government injunctions.

He issued the statement at the conclusion of a three-day meeting of the 200-man UMW wage policy committee. The soft coal contract expires June 30; the hard coal agreement on 30 days' notice by either side.

Siamese Twins Fail To Survive Surgery

OWENSBORO, Ky. —(INS)— The second member of a set of Siamese twins born to Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Glover jr., was dead today following an operation to separate them.

The babies were twin girls born yesterday morning to Mrs. Glover in a caesarean birth. They were joined back to back at the base of their spines.

Fourth Attempt Successful

Fliers Rest After Six Weeks In Air

FULLERTON, Cal.—(INS)—Endurance fliers Bill Barris and Dick Reidel stretched their cramped legs and headed with their wives for an undisclosed destination and "lots of rest" today.

The two pilots, who stayed in the air for six full weeks—nearly 300 hours longer than anyone had remained aloft continuously—vowed "never again" when asked whether they might try to boost their mark.

Their new world standard—subject to official approval—was listed as 1,008 hours, one minute and 50 seconds.

Barris and Reidel were dog-tired when they landed their four-place Aeronca, the "Sunkist Lady," at the Fullerton airport yesterday to end their monotonous flight.

For the past week, they had struggled against almost overpowering fatigue caused by the noise of their droning engine and their cramped quarters.

More than 5,000 persons broke through the police lines and swarmed around the men as they struggled to walk from their plane.

Barris was the first to alight. He staggered out of the plane and before he could take more than two steps, his wife had her arms around him, half supporting, half dragging him down.

Riedel then stumbled out and was greeted with a similar reception by Mrs. Riedel.

FOURTH ATTEMPT

After three unsuccessful attempts at the ten-year-old endurance mark of 726 hours, the fliers had been confident they could crack the record. They had prepared for the momentous flight for nine months.

Taking off March 15, the pilots headed east. Their itinerary, instead of monotonous circling over the same airport for the full six weeks included a round-trip non-stop cross country flight to Miami, Fla.

On April 11, the nose of the "Sunkist Lady" re-appeared over Fullerton airport and then the long drag began in earnest.

A gun was fired from the ground at 11:44 a. m. (PST) yesterday and the historic landing was made despite a broken tail wheel.

Area Jobs Show Gain

New Firm Helps Boost Demand

Job openings in Mansfield are on the increase, but so are applications for unemployment benefits, C. W. Handley, manager of the Mansfield state employment office, said today.

Jobs on file at the OSES office have doubled during the past week with 100 now listed, Handley said.

Unemployment benefit applications jumped 200 in a week and now total 2,300 he said. The figure remained at 2,100 for about five weeks.

Handley said a new bakery firm (Omar) which is going to open a branch in Mansfield accounted for a part of the increase in jobs. This firm has interviewed between 300 and 400 job seekers in the past two or three days, he added.

Say Lausche Won't Run

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Two Ohioans in Congress said privately today they believe Gov. Frank Lausche of Ohio will stay out of the Senate race against Senator Taft (R-Ohio) next year and run for governor a third time.

Neither congressman would permit use of his name. But both are members of the Democratic House delegation.

The issue of Lausche's 1950 intentions has become a major topic of speculation among Ohio Democrats since reports first spread that the two-time Ohio governor planned to run for his party's senatorial nomination in the hope of bucking Taft at the polls.

Rep. McSweeney, one of 12 Ohio Democrats in the House, said several days ago that he himself would be a candidate for senator—provided Lausche did not run.

One Democrat told a reporter he is convinced Lausche will not run for the Senate because he says the governor stands a better chance of increasing his national stature by taking the governorship a third time.

15 ESCAPE IN CAVE-IN

CHICAGO — (UP) — About 15 men escaped death or serious injury today when a section of a huge storm sewer tunnel being constructed 40 feet underground, caved in.

Urges OK On Pact, Arms

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson pleaded with Congress today to approve both the North Atlantic treaty and the proposed $1,450,000,000 arms aid program to bolster "world-wide security."

Acheson appeared before the Senate Foreign Relations committee at the opening of hearings on the pact which was signed here April 4. It requires approval by a two-thirds vote of the Senate before it can be ratified.

The cabinet officer termed the 12-nation security treaty and the foreign military assistance program parallel ways of building world security and said he believes both are necessary.

Acheson told the senators the two measures stem from Soviet foreign policies, declaring:

"The sense of insecurity prevalent in western Europe is not a figment of the imagination — it has come about through the conduct of the Soviet Union."

Czech General Quits Embassy

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Brig. Gen. Josef Schejbal, military and air attache at the Czech embassy here, has quit his job and asked political asylum in the United States, it was learned today

Schejbal was the second official in recent days to sever connections with the communist government of Czechoslovakia and seek refuge in this country.

City's Artists Join In Observance

Concerts to Highlight Music Week

Most of Mansfield's musical organizations and better-known soloists will join next week in the annual celebration of National Music week in the city.

The observance will begin Monday night and continue through Friday.

The annual celebration will be sponsored by the Mansfield Music Study club of which Harold McCuen is president.

Assisting in the program will be school orchestras, ensembles, choruses, with Mansfield artists participating.

Among these groups are the Mansfield Civic Symphony, directed by Donald Tennant, instrumental teacher at John Simpson junior high school; the Madison high school boys' ensemble, directed by Miss Dorothy Whitworth; Louis Girton, tenor soloist from Galion and a member of the Music Study club; Eugene Smart's accordion band, directed by Smart, and a Mansfield barbershop quartet.

Also on the program during the week will be the sixth grade pupils from the city schools who will perform under the leadership of Miss Mercedes Blue, music teacher for the grades.

Hostesses for the week of entertainment will include Mrs. J. L. Strickler, Tuesday; Mrs. Charles Campbell, Wednesday; Miss Barbara Smythe, Thursday, and Harold McCuen, Friday.

Ask Formal Statement

U. S. Seeks Facts On Blockade Issue

NEW YORK—(AP)—The United States delivered a note to the Russians here today asking for a formal statement as to when and on what conditions they will lift their Berlin blockade.

The note was taken by Philip C. Jessup, American ambassador-at-large, to Soviet Deputy Foreign Minster Jakob A. Malik.

Jessup called on Malik at the Soviet offices on upper Park avenue.

The text of the American communication was not made public, but informed quarters said its main purpose was to shift the Berlin negotiations to a formal basis and get Russia's views on paper.

Previously no views had been exchanged in writing since Jessup first brought up the question in an informal talk with Malik at Lake Success Feb. 15.

Before going alone to see Malik, Jessup met with members of the U.S. delegation to the U. N. at the American headquarters.

The American note was understood to seek clarification specifically on two issues: An exact understanding as to what would be involved in any agreement to lift the blockade and a proposed timetable.

A U. S. spokesman said this switch to a formal exchange of notes probably would result in some delay in getting Russia's views.

April Smiles On Mansfield

Mansfield finally got an ideal spring day today after a mixture of good and bad weather through most of April.

The interlude of fair skies will be brief, forecasters said, for more scattered showers are on the menu for tomorrow.

A balmy 69-degree reading was recorded yesterday in Mansfield, and the mercury was headed for the high 60's again today.

Heavy fog shrouded the Lake Erie counties of Ohio early today, slowing highway traffic and grounding planes.

Ohio GOP Leaders Plan Conference

COLUMBUS — (INS) — The new state Republican policy committee meets tomorrow in Columbus for the first time, with the re-election of U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft as its number one problem.

GOP State Chairman Ray Bliss said other problems to go before the all-day meeting would be long-range campaigns for the governorship, Congress and the state legislature.

The "grass-roots" basis of these campaigns is to be supplied partially by another new group, the Ohio Advisory committee.

Cut Stove Prices

CINNCINNATI, —(AP)— Reductions of from $10 to $30 on all models of stoves and ranges were announced today by the Estate Heatrola division of the Noma Electric corporation.

Hardware Firm Door 'Explodes'

Employes at the Martin Hardware company saw the front door of the store disintegrate before their eyes shortly before closing time yesterday.

An employe of the store said the three-by-seven-foot laminated plate glass door suddenly went to pieces until it resembled a lace curtain. No other damage was done. He said the "sealer" or coating became ineffective for some reason, and the glass expanded and broke. The pieces did not fall out of the door, however.

An employe of the Toledo firm which installed the door, said it was the first instance of its kind ever to come to his attention.

Red Armies Draw Close To Shanghai

Raiders Within 25 Miles of City

BULLETIN

SHANGHAI—(AP)—Red guerrillas in a surprise coup today seized Putung, right across the Whangpoo river from Shanghai.

SHANGHAI — (U.P.) — The communist juggernaut moved toward Shanghai today after a two-day pause, overrunning the key outpost of Soochow, 50 miles to the west, and sending advance raiders within 25 miles of this restive and fearful metropolis.

Regrouped and refreshed, the communist armies edged forward to positions from which they could launch a two-pronged drive on Shanghai or isolate it by slicing across to the sea southwest of the city.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, for decades the leader of the sorely beset Nationalist regime, sounded a rallying cry to his followers. He asked them to fight the communists with the same tenacity they displayed against the Japanese. The communists, he said, were trying to convert all China into a military base and source of manpower for world domination.

The renewed communist drive brought massive armies into position around a broad area through Soochow and Kwangteh, some 65 miles northwest of Hangchow. A sudden thrust to Hangchow, great rail and port city, would cut off Shanghai.

The Nationalists admitted that the communists had captured Soochow, on the east shore of Lake Tai. It controls the main road and rail lines east to Shanghai, and was the last strategic outpost at which a stand might have been made beyond the environs of Shanghai itself.

Military authorities announced that Soochow was "evacuated," but other reports described it as a communist capture.

Chitang, 25 miles northeast of Soochow, also fell to the communists. From there and Soochow they were in position to push straight down on Shanghai, although no concrete signs had appeared that they were doing so at once.

Guard Cutter Rescues Four

NEW YORK —(UP)— The coast guard cutter Sebago picked up the four man crew of an air force C-47 early today when the transport developed engine trouble and made a belly landing in the Atlantic ocean 610 miles southeast of Argentia, Nfld.

The plane's crew, all of whom escaped injury were identified as Lt. Robert R Bush, Yuba, Calif., pilot; Lt. John Kelek, Greely, Colo., co-pilot; Lt. George H. Behrens, Chicopee Falls, Mass., navigator, and S/Sgt. James B. Manion, East Moline, Ill.

The Sebago, en route to Argentia, radioed that the pilot contacted the cutter by radio, then made an emergency landing 100 yards away.

Sisters Give New Evidence

Quizzed After Suspect's Release

City detectives and county Prosecutor Harold Lutz today renewed their investigation of the fatal shooting last Saturday night of May Roberts, 39, of 384 Marshall avenue, after the case had apparently come to a dead end yesterday with the release of Mrs. Roberts' husband, Frank, 21.

Renewed activity in the probe followed presentation of new evidence by Mrs. Claudie Smitherman, Detroit, and Mrs. C. Glass, Los Angeles, sisters of the slain woman.

Mrs. Smitherman and Mrs. Glass brought their stories to The News-Journal yesterday afternoon and were taken by a News-Journal reporter to the office of the prosecutor this morning.

Lutz immediately called in Detectives William Colby and Bruce Friday who joined him in questioning Mrs. Smitherman and her 15-year-old daughter, Pat, for several hours.

Yesterday Lutz ruled there was insufficient evidence of homicide, in ordering the release of Frank Roberts.

The new evidence obtained today, Lutz said, concerns Roberts' conduct prior to the night of the shooting.

AT SHOOTING SCENE

Both Mrs. Smitherman and her daughter say they were several blocks away from the kitchen in Robert's home, when the shooting occurred, but were not actually eye witnesses.

Among the evidence police will investigate is a report that Frank Roberts had shot at his wife in an alley of a North Main street tavern, about a week ago. The bullet didn't strike her.

The prosecutor said the new evidence "throws no light on the present shooting."

He said Mrs. Smitherman, and her daughter, had furnished names of persons who had observed Frank Roberts' past conduct.

Detectives Friday and Colby were not available for comment after the questioning.

Mrs. Smitherman has obtained the services of an attorney and said she will press for action if the prosecutor fails to bring Roberts to court.

Mrs. Roberts was killed when a 25-20 caliber rifle bullet entered her left side at 3:27 a. m. Sunday.

Ask Probe On Carrier

WASHINGTON— (UP) —Top-ranking Republicans today demanded a congressional investigation of the scuttling of the navy's proposed supercarrier which led to the resignation of Navy Secretary John L. Sullivan.

At the same time, some high navy officers joined Sullivan in expressing fear that most naval and marine aviation soon may be turned over to the air force.

Senate GOP Leader Kenneth S. Wherry said the Armed Service committee should hear what Sullivan has to say on the carrier issue. Wherry said the problem is a "major policy question which should be decided by Congress."

Sen. Styles Bridges, N. H., ranking Republican on the Armed Services committee, said he believes the issue will be brought up at tomorrow's committee meeting. He said members had an understanding that Sullivan would be called "in view of the conflicting stories and opinions."

HELD IN WIFE'S DEATH

Times Wins High Rating

Simpson Times, student newspaper of the John Simpson junior high school, was given an all-American rating in the National Scholastic Press association contest, sponsored by the University of Minnesota.

Announcement of the Times award was made today by Mrs. Gladys Lane, faculty adviser for the editorial staff. This is the highest rating given to a school paper. The Times was judged with those schools having an enrollment between 700 and 999 pupils.

The rating was based on four points, Mrs. Lane said. These included: news values and sources, news writing and editing, headlines and typography and makeup.

The comment of the critics, was unusually commendable. "You are putting out one of the outstanding publications for junior high schools," they said.

The highest points were gained by the excellence of news coverage, creativeness, leads, feature, editing, front page makeup and editorials.

Appleseed Pupils to Select Best Citizens In Three Grades

Its Good Citizenship Week at Johnny Appleseed junior high school. Posters are being made and judged and poems written in observance of the event. The outstanding pupils of the seventh, eighth and ninth grades are chosen for their "good citizen" qualities and later given awards.

One boy and one girl were nominated yesterday from each room, including the home rooms, by the teachers. The entire list of 30 will be presented to the faculty today for approval. Thursday pupils will vote and select the top five or six who will be presented medals.

All the 30 will be given good citizenship badges. The seventh and ninth grade top students will receive silver medals from the school. The eighth grade girl will get a medal from the DAR and the eighth grade boy from the Sons of the American Revolution. Medals will be presented at a special assembly late in May.

The wekk will close Friday with an assembly talk by Rev. Carveth P. Mitchell on "Good Citizenship". At that assembly, all will receive their "Good Citizenship" buttons.

A generation ago painters bought colors, lead and zinc in dry powder form and ground them in oil through hand mills as needed.

Gregorio's Two-Hitter Wins, 7 to 0

Senior high's Lou Gregorio showed little concern for rain, mud, or Willard batters as he tossed the Tygers to a two-hit 7-0 shutout at Liberty park yesterday.

Gregorio fanned 12 Willardites and walked only four despite a steady downpour which started with the first pitch and continued until Umpire George Bosko called the game in the middle of the sixth inning. Gregorio did not allow a single man to advance farther than second base and only two get safely to the keystone.

SIX IN FOURTH

On the offense, Mansfield continued to show power to spare as it came up with a six-run fourth inning to put the game on ice. Gregorio and Third-baseman Mike Gruber led the attack with two hits apiece, Gruber's including a double and triple. Gregorio had a triple—the longest hit of the day—in the second inning.

Sparkie Watts and Joe Miller walked to open the sixth and Ken McCally singled, filling the bases. Mike Gruber doubled to score Watts and Miller, McCally stopping at third. Ed McKeever walked and Corky Perrine slid the ball past the pitcher to score two more runs. Gregorio grounded out but the field was so wet that Jacobs kicked Charlie Marchant's grounder and McKeever and Perrine rode home.

Gregorio drove in McKeever with the final run in the fifth inning with a long single.

It was the second straight victory for the Tygers but the big test will come at 3.45 this afternoon when they entertain Marion. Not that the visitors are rated an edge, but it will be the first time Tyger Coach Mike Byelene has had to call on his No. 2 pitcher, Shortstop Sparkie Watts.

Senior high will meet its crosstown rival, Madison in a long-awaited game Friday at Blue Goose. Gregorio will be back in action for that one

'49 N-J Head Pin Tourney May Set 'Rolling' Record

The 1949 News-Journal Head pin tournament today stood within 53 entries of setting a new participation record, according to tournament manager Art Hilborn

To date 424 lines have been rolled in the tournament as against 477 entries in the first tournament, held last spring at Richland Recreation. The meet closes Sunday evening and a new record is expected to be set sometime during the final two days.

Of course, many of the lines are duplications since each person is allowed to roll twice but a separate entry fee was paid each time and the prize list will be made up on one-fourth of the total lines rolled.

Two trophies also go to the top man and top woman bowler. Elnora Gentille looks a cinch to repeat as the Women's champ with her 331 score while Bob Bieri's 330 tops the men.

Only one new name appears on the "Big Ten" as it stands today. Donna Schuster rolled into tenth place in the Women's A Monday night with a 267 score

Rams Edge Lucas Nine Behind Jim

The Madison Rams made use of surprisingly fine pitching by Jim McMillan yesterday to edge Lucas, 3-1, for their third straight victory at Blue Goose diamond.

It was McMillan's first victory as he went all the way to give up only four hits and the same number of bases on balls. He was in trouble only in two innings and came out of both in good shape.

Lucas forced Madison to come from behind when it scored its only run in the top of the first inning. Pitcher Bob Berger drove in Chuck Doggett from third base with a single to left after Doggett had gotten a base knock earlier in the inning.

In the last half of the opening frame, "Old Reliable" Dutch Bader tied the score by singling in Norm Hughes after the shortstop had led off by getting on through an error. Madison went ahead to stay in the second when Ed Chelski was hit by a pitched ball, Fred Durig singled and Jim Brightbill drove Chelski home from second.

GETS ONE MORE

After a heavy downpour interrupted the game between the fifth and six innings, Madison came back to add another run. Right Fielder Fred Durig, who earlier in the day had thrown a runner out at first base on a "single," led off the sixth with a walk. He stole second and third and came home on Jim Brightbill's second hit of the day

Ed Chelski made the fielding play of the day when, in the top of the sixth, he robbed Lucas of at least two runs with a diving catch of Cline's liner. Doggett, who had doubled earlier in the frame, was already across the plate and another base-runner was at third.

Ten Little Girls In Blue Jeans Feature Tourney

COLUMBUS — (AP) — A group of 10 little girls took the Women's International Bowling Congress tournament by storm last night — but it wasn't their scores which caused the commotion

It was the way they bowled. The crowd loved 'em, all decked out in blue jeans, grinning and laughing.

Dolores Holman, 11, turned in 307; Janet Painter, 11, scored 235, Claudette Anelich, 10, tossed 232; Sandy Riebel, 9, did 206 and Alice Mae Price, 12, had 309. That adds up to 1289 which is far from low in the city tournament booster division Low is 892 — and two teams have hit that score.

The other girls team was a little older. Myrna Beck, 13, bowled 329; June Harrity, 12, floored 532, Eileen Conroy, 15, toppled 294; Judy McIntosh, 13, scored 282 and Carlyn Holman, 14, had 385 That's a 1622 which will win some money in that division.

Tyger Cage Team Hears Dye Tonight

Members of the Mansfield Senior high school basketball team tonight will be feted at the first annual banquet of the Alumni "M" association.

Tippy Dye, the dynamic little basketball coach at Ohio State, will be the principal speaker at the fete which is listed for 6:30 p. m. at the Richland Recreation center.

Gene Lantz, co-chairman of the banquet committee, will act as toastmaster while Fred Tharp, News-Journal sports editor, will present the "most valuable player" award.

Other short talks will be by Richard Nagle, president of the letter-winners group; basketball Coach Vern Hoffman and Athletic Director Augie Morningstar.

Honored guests will be the Tyger basketball squad and its coaches.

The 34-year-old Dye is one of the very few Buckeye athletes ever to win nine letters. He picked up awards in football, basketball and baseball. He was all-conference twice in basketball and played every baseball infield position except first base.

LOSE ONLY ONE

Two of the three seasons Tippy squarterbacked the State football team it lost only one game each time. Before the war, Dye coached at Grandview high school, Brown university and Ohio State. His 1943 Buck baseball team brought State its first undisputed title since 1917.

Dye has been cage coach at State for three years, winning 31 of 61 games. During the war he coached at North Carolina Pre-Flight and Corpus Christi naval air stations.

Rogers Jewelry is donating the "most valuable player" award.

Olympics List 18 Activities

ROME — (UP) — The program for the 1952 summer Olympic games at Helsinki, Finland, will comprise 18 events — just as in last year's games at London — despite objections from the United States.

An American faction, led by President Avery Brundage of the U. S. Olympic committee claimed that the large schedule was cumbersome and tried to have it cut to 16 sports.

The bidding for the site of the 1956 games was narrowing down to a choice between four cities — Buenos Aires, Mexico City, Melbourne and a city in the United States.

Zale Retires From Boxing At 36 Years

CHICAGO — (AP) — Tony Zale, with enough gumption to admit that he is over the hill, has retired from the ring after a long, brilliant, rough career.

The "man of steel" whose age has made him a bit rusty, surrendered a $60,000 guarantee for a return bout with Marcel Cerdan The Frenchman won Zale's middleweight boxing crown on a 12th round technical knockout in Jersey City last Sept. 21.

The two battlers had been rematched at New York's Polo Grounds June 21 Zale, who will be 36 next month, was assured of at least $60,000 as his share.

Zale, father of two young daughters, will not hang up his gloves. He will wear them in the role of chief instructor teaching lads of Chicago's Catholic Youth organization how to fight.

Harold Olsen Resigns Post

CHICAGO — (INS) — The Chicago Stags of the Basketball Association of America were marketing for a new coach today to replace Harold Olsen, who resigned after 30 years in basketball because it was time "to quit worrying."

So the former Ohio State coach, who took over the Stags from their inception and guided them to a 113-76 won-and-lost record in three years of play, will devote his full time to operation of his boys' camp in Wisconsin.

The 53-year-old Olsen coached Ohio State cagers for 24 years before coming to the Stags.

Yanks Surprise DiMaggio, Too

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK—(UP)—Ailing Joe DiMaggio his heart with the New York Yankees but his mind on an injured heel, dolefully declared today, "It's tough to sit around."

Vainly attempting to conceal his anxiety the slugging outfielder added "I still don't know when I'll be back but I certainly hope it'll be soon This sitting around is awful"

Despite the absence of DiMaggio, however, the Yankees have won seven out of eight Joe of course, has noticed that too

"Sure, I'm surprised by our fine start," he said "Everybody is surprised

"Nobody expected us to get off so well" he added with a trace of vicarious pride "The way I look at it those victories are so much gravy because we didn't figure to go so well right off the bat.

"Casey Stengel is doing a wonderful job He deserves a lot of credit and so do all the boys"

The Yankees burdened by injuries to DiMaggio Bob Porter field, Charley Keller Frank Shea and George Stirnweiss currently sport a game-and-a-half lead over the rest of the American league pack They have been playing with several replacements but DiMaggio refused to single out any one player over the other

DiMaggio who was to have undergone treatments for his hot heel at Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore, vetoed the idea choosing instead to take the treatments here in New York while remaining with the club

He takes in occasional games at Yankee stadium although he has not yet made a road trip with the team He sits either in the dugout or in a box seat wearing civilian clothes

Despite the club's excellent start Stengel eagerly is awaiting DiMaggio's return

"There's no way of estimating he said, "how much Joe's absence means to us, not only on the ball field for morale purposes as well"

Yankee players second Stengel's motion unanimously

When Johnny Lindell first was nominated to take over center field he piped up immediately

"I'm only here until the 'boss' gets back"

Said a Yankee pitcher

"With DiMaggio we're a first division ball club without him, we're just a ball club"

Yes Sir: You can put $25,000 worth of clothes on a woman—but even if you were to buy the very finest shoes and garments you couldn't spend more than $700 on your own clothes And if you selected your clothes at Matthes you wouldn't spend a fraction of that—and still you would be well dressed.

Sain and Jansen Top Pitching Flops

Yanks Win Another By One Run, 5 to 4

By JOE REICHLER, Associated Press Sports Writer

Boston's Johnny Sain and the Giants' Larry Jansen are being tabbed today as the two biggest early season pitching flops of 1949.

Counted on to carry their teams this year following superlative '48 seasons, both have been terrific disappointments. Each has started three times with nary a victory.

Sain, whose 24 triumphs last year was the biggest single factor in bringing the first National league pennant to Boston in 34 years, currently owns an inglorious 0-2 won and lost record.

Jansen, fortunate in being backed by heavy hitting support, has been charged with only one defeat, but the Giants haven't won any of the games Jansen has started.

Both had extremely rough sledding yesterday. Sain, who previously had been beaten by Philadelphia and shelled from the mound by the Giants, managed to go the distance, but he and the Braves were handed a 5-2 shellacking by the Brooklyn Dodgers in Ebbets Field. The big righthander was tagged for nine hits including home runs by Gene Hermanski and Pee Wee Reese.

Preacher Roe spaced seven hits for his first victory for the Dodgers, who regained the league lead, a half game in front of idle Pittsburgh and the Giants. Hermanski, who replaced the light-hitting Cal Abrams in left field, got two hits and also made the fielding gem of the game. He started the first triple play of the season, coming in fast to make a running catch of Alvin Dark's short fly. A Hermanski-Jackie Robinson-Gil Hodges relay engineered the triple killing.

LASTS ONLY SIX

Jansen still hasn't pitched a complete game. He lasted only six innings yesterday as the fighting Phils came from behind to nip the Giants 12-11 in eleven innings. After the Giants had taken an 11-9 lead in the top of the 11th, the Phils came roaring back with three runs climaxed by Del Ennis' home run with a man on base.

Gerry Coleman, rookie infielder filling in for the injured George Stirnweiss at second base, slammed his first major league home run to give the first place New York Yankees a 5-4 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics.

Coleman's round tripper came off Alex Kellner in the last half of the eighth with a mate aboard to erase a 4-3 Mackmen margin. Kellner had replaced starter Phil Marchildon in the first inning. The latter had complained of pain in his right shoulder while serving up to the first batter.

The Detroit Tigers moved into second place, a game and a half from the top, by taking both ends of a double header from the White Sox in Chicago, 6-2 and 7-5. The Tigers had to go 10 innings to win the second game.

Johnny Groth, Detroit's sensational rookie, doubled home the runs in the extra frame that gave relief Pitcher Dizzy Trout the triumph. Groth also helped in the first game victory with a two-run single.

LOU RAPS ONE

Manager Lou Boudreau hit his first home run of the season and righthander Bob Lemon pitched his first shutout as the Cleveland Indians nipped the St. Louis Browns 1-0. Boudreau's clout came in the fourth and was one of the four hits allowed by Red Embree, a former Indian pitcher. Lemon now has a lifetime record of 13 wins and only one defeat against St. Louis.

Games between Washington and the Red Sox in Boston, and Cincinnati against the Cardinals at St. Louis were postponed by rain. Pittsburgh and the Chicago Cubs were not scheduled.

Chicago Sox Test Indians In Cleveland

CLEVELAND — (UP) — The Chicago White Sox moved into town today to meet the world champion Cleveland Indians, who squeezed by the St. Louis Browns yesterday to win their fourth game in six starts.

Steve Gromek, whose first outing this season ended in victory, is slated to pitch for the tribe. On the mound for Chicago will be Al Gettel, who lost his first start of the infant season.

Cleveland now rests in third place in the league standings behind New York and Detroit. The White Sox, who dropped two to Detroit yesterday, are in fourth place.

Bob Lemon and manager Lou Boudreau combined talents at the stadium here yesterday to enable the Indians to edge the Browns 1-0 in a flashy, speedy ball game before 8,116 fans. The game was played in 1:39.

Boudreau provided the only tally of the game in the fourth inning when he rammed a home run 400 feet over the center field fence. It was one of just four hits allowed by Red Embree, the ex-Indian, and Boudreau's first homer of the year.

SECOND STRAIGHT

Lemon allowed five hits as he scored his second straight triumph, both of them over the Browns. It was his first shutout, of which he pitched 10 last year. He struck out five and was helped by two double plays.

Embree received fine support in the form of four double plays which helped to keep the Indians at bay.

Shelby Links Squad Wins

SHELBY — The Shelby high school Whippet golfers defeated the Wooster Generals 8½ to 3½ at Wooster yesterday afternoon.

Boreman of Shelby tied Carlton of Wooster for the low medal score. Each had 81.

The results follow:

Boreman (S), 40-41-81, 2½ won over Ackerman (W), 44-41-85, ½; Wilkinson (S)), 41-42-83, 0 lost to Carlton (W), 40-41-81, 3; Dennis (S), 43-43-86, 3 won from Jones (W), 50-49-99, 0; Yohn (S), 43-43-86, 3 won over Miller (W), 47-48-95, 0.

This gives the Whippets a 500 average for the season. They have beaten Norwalk and Wooster and lost to Findlay and Ashland.

Out of School 10 Years, Still Plays

By FRITZ HOWELL
Ohio AP Sports Editor

COLUMBUS—What do you think of a guy playing football and baseball with a high school team 10 years after his graduation from another high school?

What do you think Harold Winfield Emswiler, Ohio's high school commissioner of athletics, would say about such a rule infraction?

Well, if you ask "Emmy," he'll just sit back, grin, and say: "I did it!"

And he did, too, for four years back around the turn of the century, when (perhaps) it wasn't against the rules for the coach to play on the high school team.

"Emmy" has had quite a career. He was born in Jersey, over in Licking county, some 62 or 63 years ago, and was graduated from Kirkersville high school. He taught for three years in the one-room rural schools of Licking county, moved over to the grammar school at Dublin, just up the Scioto river from Columbus for a year, and then went to Hanover where he was principal of the village schools for a year and superintendent the next.

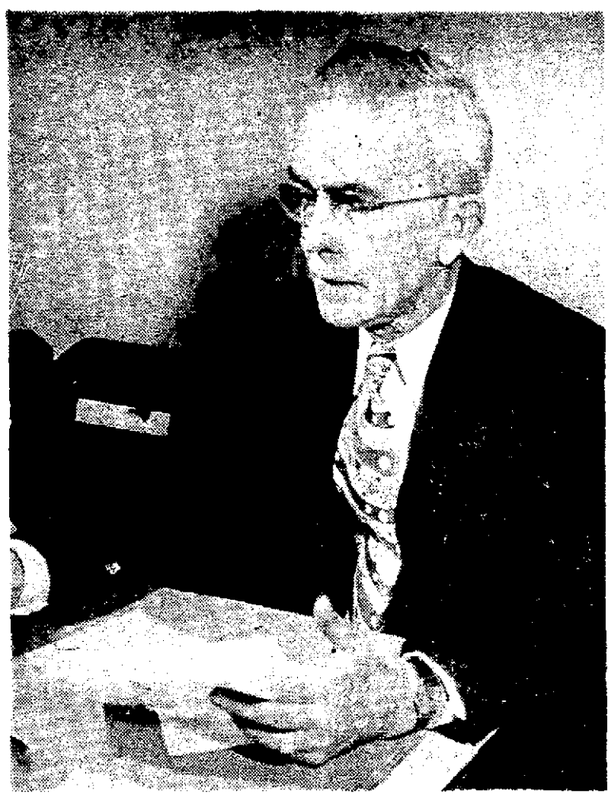
PLAYS FOR FOUR

In 1910 he was named principal at Utica high school. He also was coach. Not only that, he was quarterback on the football team, and shortstop on the baseball team for four yers. (The Ohio High School Athletic association was formed in 1907-08, but maybe Utica wasn't among the 84 members.)

During all those years "Emmy" was getting a college education at Ohio State summer schools. From Utica he shipped to Doane Academy of Denison University, and while there became a big red graduate.

Then came six years of science-mathematics teaching at Columbus East High, two as supervisor of adult education in the State capital, 10 as principal of Starling Junior high, and nine as principal at Columbus Central.

During those active years—up to August of 1944 when he succeeded the late H. R. Townsend as commissioner—Emswiler found time to officiate 225 high school football games, 165 college games and 10 professional games—under three different sets of rules.



H. W. EMSWILER

For five seasons he handled basketball and baseball games, too. For 21 years he was secretary-treasurer of the Ohio Association of football officials. He has assigned officials for as many as 28 Ohio colleges and 50 high schools in a single season.

He's just a little fellow physically—but as you look back over that record you begin to see why he's the biggest man in his field. Today "Emmy" is a quiet, reserved and sincere administrator, but don't let that shy appearance fool you. No one pushes "Emmy" around.

About the only critical remark you can make about him is that he smokes probably the least fragrant cigars on the market. We wouldn't want Emmy to know she said it, but Beatrice Steele, his secretary, hinted that:

"Someone must give him those cigars. I know he wouldn't pay out good money for them."

But Emmy seems to work at his best when in a smoke cloud of his own making. And he has plenty of work to do, supervising the athletic activities of 1,165 high schools and all the state meets.

Among his hobbies are puttering in his garden at nearby Reynoldsburg, playing a bit of golf or bridge, or running up to Canada for some fishing. He makes at least 100 talks a year, a chore he dislikes but which he figures is part of his job.

All those activities burn up a lot of energy and keep "Emmy" at a trim, well-dressed 135 pounds.

Mr. Emswiler—his adoring office force are the only ones who call him that—is married, but has no children.

No children? Well, Emmy will tell you that he looks on some 30,000 Ohio high school athletes as if "they are all my boys."

Famous Fishing In Quebec's Gatineau

QUEBEC, P. Q. — 1949 — The towers of Canada's Parliament buildings at Ottawa, the national capital, look out across the Ottawa river at the purple and green hills of the Gatineau area of beautiful Quebec. The Gatineau's lakes and rivers are fishing grounds fabulous to fishermen of both Canada and the United States.

The fishing fertility of the Gatineau is easily attested by the great number of private fishing clubs which have leases throughout the hills and on the lakes and rivers, and by the even greater number of cottages and camps built by annual vacationists amid those hills. But there are still countless streams and quiet lakes available for the lures of the casual fisherman from other parts. There are beautiful speckled trout in those cold waters, and there are bass in the lakes, too.

Talk to fishermen who have been to Quebec about the pools of the Lievre river and about the fighting fish of Whitefish lake and his eyes will light up with interest and enthusiasm. It is great fishing country and it is easily reached by both train and by car, and there are many lodges and a few first class hotels for the fishermen to use as his headquarters while he explores the haunts of trout and bass.

Many visitors from the United States like to take canoe trips in Gatineau waters, usually making use of the Gatineau river itself as the main thoroughfare, but portaging here and there to reach the favorite fishing holes known to the guides and to friendly lodgekeepers and local fishermen. Adv.

Hint Reds Will Cancel Reparations

Russians Seek To Woo Reich

BERLIN — (UP) — Usually well-informed quarters said yesterday that Russia has promised German communist leaders a peace treaty for eastern Germany and cancellation of all reparations claims once an east German state has been created.

The reported Soviet offer appeared to be Russia's answer to the agreement reached by western German political leaders and the American, British and French military governors for establishment of a west German state.

There was no confirmation of the reported offer from Soviet quarters. But if it is made publicly, it probably will win much support for the Soviet Union Russian has demanded $10,000,000,000 reparations from Germany, one of the most severe penalties for its aggressive war still hanging over the reich.

The offer was said to have been relayed to the newly-formed Foreign Affairs committee of the Socialist Unity (communist) party of the Russian zone of Germany by Walter Ulbricht, "brains" of the party.

Informants said the Foreign Affairs committee was instructed to prepare a propaganda campaign to win support for the proposed eastern state. the Russians were said to have held back on creating an eastern state until a western state became a certainty.

The official Soviet occupation newspaper in Berlin, Taegliche Rundschau, charged that establishment of the western state—expected by July 15 — would "speed up a new war."

Women Now Outnumber Men In U. S.

For the first time in the history of the United States women outnumber men in the population.

In 1947, there were 992 males for every 1,000 females, as compared to 1,060 males per 1,000 females in 1910, according to statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company.

The change in the sex ratio for the county is attributed by the statisticians to the decrease in immigration During the high tide of immigration, far greater number of men than of women came to this country.

The west, is the only section of the country in which men outnumber women. Figures for 1947 show 1,035 men for every 1,000 women in the western section

Gazing into the future statisticians say that the 1975 ratio will be not much different from what it is right now. They estimate it will be about 985 males per 1,000 females.

Many Home Accidents Avoidable

WITH MAY proclaimed by Governor Lausche as Safety Month in Ohio, it appears more than ordinary emphasis is to be placed on what are called "home accidents," which last year accounted for 2,021 of the total of 5,355 accident fatalities in this state.

Information is to the effect that falls produce 60 per cent of the home fatalities, with persons over 65 years of age as the most frequent victims, and a special warning is given to leave the climbing of ladders to younger members of the family and to keep floors and stairs free from anything that might be stumbled over—also to have handrailing on the stairs.

Burns and explosions rank second as accident-causes in homes, with specific reference to lack of care by smokers, defective heating apparatus and the use of flammable fluids in kindling fires.

Suffocation of infants, resulting from pillows or bulky bedcovers, is placed third as a cause of home fatalities, while accidental poisoning is mentioned as having shown an increase in the past few years.

Mrs. Dorothy B. Hammans, vice president of the Ohio State Safety Council, asks that women examine their homes carefully for hazards during the housecleaning season, with the notation: "Be careful, the life you save may be your own."

They Have Served Long and Well

ANNOUNCEMENT that neither Harold W. Arlin nor Alvin H. Fankhauser intend to continue membership on the Mansfield board of education after expiration of their present terms will occasion regret among those who know of the excellent service performed by these two men during the long period that each has been on the school board.

Mansfield is now in the midst of a costly school building and remodeling program with which Mr. Arlin and Mr. Fankhauser have been closely associated and there would be an advantage in their continuing until completion of this work.

From the standpoint of length of service, without compensation and entirely as a contribution to community betterment, it cannot be doubted that these two school board members have given all that could be asked of them, and, in the event their decision is unchangeable, there should be no minimizing the importance of casting about for suitable successors, as Mansfield has been fortunate in the high caliber of its board of education personnel for many years.

Further Investigation Needed

SURELY there will be no inclination on the part of law enforcement officials to drop the matter of solving the mystery in connection with the fatal shooting of a Mansfield woman last Saturday morning.

Procedure thus far has the appearance of being quite incomplete, and while, according to police, an "extensive investigation has been made," County Prosecutor Harold Lutz is quoted as saying that evidence of homicide is insufficient to justify court action.

It appears, however, that a number of persons were in the immediate vicinity when the shooting occurred and that information might be secured that would determine whether accident or intent was responsible for the woman's death.

Mansfield's "wide-open" policies in law enforcement should surely not be extended to the point of lukewarm attitude toward an occurrence that has elements of a major crime.

Repeal War Tax On Travel

DURING THE WAR, nearly eight years ago, a 15 per cent tax was added to all train, bus and plane fares, principally to discourage civilian travel.

It was not the primary purpose of the tax to raise revenue. The original reason for imposing it has long since ceased to exist. Like all taxes, once they have been established, it is almost impossible to get rid of them.

Today this penalty on travel not only works a hardship on commercial carriers at a time when business is slowing up, but it is affecting vacation travel and all activities which benefit from tourist business.

It is a burden on parents of students who are traveling to school; on people visiting relatives; on people who must travel because of illness in the family, accidents and death; on individuals attending conferences and business meetings of various kinds, and on traveling for health and recreation.

The tax has been repealed on travel to foreign countries receiving Marshall Plan aid. Several weeks ago Canada, which imposed a similar 15 per cent tax during the war, dropped it, and it is high time for similar action in this country.

Medical Science Duplicating Nature

ONE of the recent fields of exploration in medicine has been in the use of drugs which are derived from mold in the soil and from the chlorophyl which is used by green plants to manufacture food in the mysterious factories of their leaves. Penicillin and chloromycetin are among the soil mold drugs; both are very potent and have been used with success in treating a wide range of diseases and infections.

Now one of these, chloromycetin, has been produced synthetically, by laboratory chemical processes alone The drug firm which discovered the way to do it is well enough pleased with test results to call them satisfactory.

A relationship was found between this recent drug, which writers like to call a "wonder drug," and a relatively common chemical. As to this specific drug, the discovery means that medical people now can have all the chloromycetin they want.

For the general field of medicine it is another step toward duplicating the curative and protective processes of nature, many of which are still deep mysteries.

If Hollywood were in the dairy business, there might be no more prosaic announcements of "Rich Dairy Butter" and "Strictly Fresh Eggs". Attention would more likely be directed to "Stupendously Rich Butter" and "Supercolossally Fresh Eggs."

Noting that living costs are increasing slightly this spring, some may feel that it is worth more to be living at this time of year.

Washington Calling

Housing Bill Enactment Now Probable

By MARQUIS CHILDS

FOR A long time now Congress has been batting back and forth that word, housing. If all the speeches on the subject were laid end to end, they would reach so far out into space as to escape the sight even of the great new Palomar telescope.

But Congress seems actually about to pass a substantial housing bill. It will mean direct government aid to build decent homes for some of the lowest income families. The filthiest, most disease-ridden and overcrowded slums will be cleared away.

In spite of all that the private housing lobby could do, the Senate has now passed a bill calling for construction of 810,000 home units over a period of six years.

For slum clearance, the measure provides $1,500,000,000 in federal loans and grants. The Senate, of course, has done this twice before and a handful of obstructionists in the House have always blocked it.

Today, however, there is general confidence the House will be allowed to vote on the bill and, if they vote, they will adopt it. Both Speaker Sam Rayburn and Majority Leader John McCormack have expressed their optimism to President Truman.

If these confident forecasts prove true, several people will be able to step forward and take merited applause. One will be the President, who has consistently ever since he has been in the White House, and long before that in the Senate, urged the need for government help in building homes for families whose incomes are so low they cannot afford a decent place to live.

Another will be Sen. Robert A Taft of Ohio. Taft's sponsorship of housing by government subsidy goes nearly back as far as the President's. In 1945 he joined with two Democrats, Sens. Robert Wagner of New York and Allen Ellender of Louisiana, to sponsor a public housing bill.

Taft, who favors more limited assistance than the administration proposal, has had his ups and downs as a champion of public aid in home building. In both the 79th and 80th Congress the Senate passed bills of which Taft was a sponsor. But in spite of all the prestige and power he wields in the Republican party, he could not move the half dozen leaders in the House who were holding the door shut against any consideration of the bill.

* * *

Taft Has Stood Firm.

SO FAR as his convictions go Taft has never wavered. The intensity of his feeling came out once again in the highly publicized episode of his off-the-record speech before the Republican policy committee.

That speech, in which he told his fellow Republicans that the party could never win an election so long as they opposed every measure of social reform, puts Taft in the most interesting political spot in the capital.

He becomes the blunt, outspoken challenger feared within both the Republican and Democratic parties. That has always been more or less his role, but until his speech he has never so openly challenged the right wing or Republicanism.

In his own party, Taft is resented particularly by such men as his Ohio colleague, Sen. John Bricker.

Bricker, an avowed spokesman for the real estate lobby, sees Taft in the same light that Franklin Roosevelt's rich and conservative friends regarded the late president—that is, as a traitor to his class and background.

Taft is up for re-election in Ohio next year. It should be the sharpest and most significant contest in the country. From the Bricker wing of the party he can expect, at best, indifference. On the other side, organized labor is out to defeat him for sponsoring the Taft-Hartley act.

If he wins, Taft will be able to claim a strong middle position between the Truman Fair Deal and the do-nothingism of the extreme right in both parties. The political logic of this middle ground will be highly persuasive not only for his own party, but for a great many independent voters with no strong ties. That, of course, points directly toward 1952.

It explains why the Democratic national committee will concentrate so much money and time toward knocking Taft out in Ohio next year. The Bricker type is not feared. Their complete and total reaction is almost self-defeating. But a Taft, claiming the middle ground of reform and progress in health, housing, education—that is another and far more serious matter.

That is the kind of political competition out of which advances have come in this country. It sometimes seems hopelessly slow, but usually—as now, with housing — it comes along.

Frankly Speaking

Core of Health Dispute

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — Lift the lid on the argument over a government health program and you find this:

It is not an argument over whether the government should interest itself in health. There is a government health program now.

The problem is how far should such a program, backed with government money and some government control, be allowed to go.

This will give you an idea of how deep the government already is involved—in a limited way—in helping the nation's health:

1. it is giving states up to $75,000,000 a year to help them build hospitals; it gives states money to strengthen their public health services; it gives states money for mother and child care and to help crippled children; it is spending money on research in cancer, dental, mental, heart and venereal diseases.

2. In addition, 18½ million veterans are eligible for care in government hospitals: every veteran with a service-connected disability is entitled to complete care for that disability at home or in a government hospitals; every veteran with a service-connected disability is entitled to complete care for that disability at home or in a government hospital: there are 26 government marine hospitals for the care of merchant seamen and the coast guard; men in the armed services and their dependents get medical care: and some government agencies have their own medical programs. The government operates more than 200,000 hospital beds.

* * *

BOTH President Truman and those who oppose his ideas on a national health program are pretty generally agreed it is necessary to expand No. 1 with even more and wider government help.

But it is on the next par of Mr. Truman's program—national compulsory health insurance—that the President and his opponents disagree.

Says the President: "It is no longer just the poor who are unable to pay for all the medical care they need—such care is now beyond the means of all but the upper income groups."

(Forty-five per cent of all families in the United States have incomes of less than $3,000 a year. And 22 per cent have incomes under $2,000.)

So Mr. Truman wants the people to have health insurance through a tax on payrolls, just as they pay for their social security benefits.

Who'd be covered? Employes, and the self-employed, and their dependents, pretty completely. How big a tax?

Three per cent on a payroll, with 1½ paid by the worker, 1½ paid by the employer, on salaries up to $4,800. Example:

Jones makes $10,000. He'd be taxed only up to $4,800. It would be $1.38 a week for him and his family. The boss would pay an equal sum.

If Jones made only $2,000 a year, the tax would be 57 cents a week on him and the same on his employer. The self-employed would pay the full three per cent. The government would also contribute.

Doctors wouldn't have to take part if they didn't want to. They could choose their own patients. Patients could choose their doctors.

Mr. Truman and his supporters say the program could be carried out with a minimum of government interference.

They argue this kind of compulsory insurance is the only way to be sure all the people get decent medical care.

But the opponents contend the Truman program would put far too much control in the government's hands. They want people, if they're going to take part in health insurance programs, to go into the voluntary kind.

The Truman supporters argue the voluntary programs are not complete enough. Mr. Truman says:

"Most voluntary plans give only very limited protection. . . only 3½ million of our people have insurance which provides anything approaching adequate health protection."

But Mr. Truman's lieutenants don't expect Congress to pass the health insurance program—at this session, at least.

Bridges Opposed To Policies In China

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — It wasn't officially recorded, but New Hampshire's Senator Styles Bridges recently struck a sharp blow at the bipartisan foreign policy by demanding that the G. O. P. take its own stand on foreign affairs — particularly in China.

He shot the challenge squarely at Michigan's Senator Arthur Vandenberg, the Mr. Big of the bipartisan foreign policy, during a secret meeting of the Republican policy committee.

The debate got so heated that at one point Vandenberg snorted: "Now, this is within these four walls. There aren't many here, and if this appears in Drew Pearson's column, I won't have too many to check with."

However, here is the story of what happened at the secret meeting.

Bridges called upon the Republicans to stop echoing "Me, too" to everything the administration does and to focus a "little sunlight on the mistakes and questionable policies" of the Democrats.

He charged that China was being forfeited to the communists and he urged Vandenberg to take a stand on this and demand a review of our China policy. When America realizes its mistake, Bridges argued, then the Republicans could pin the blame upon the Democrats.

Vandenberg retorted sharply that it was easier for Bridges to snipe against our foreign policy because he didn't have the responsibility as G. O. P. foreign-policy spokesman. Vandenberg admitted that the picture is dark for the Chinese anti - communists, but argued that it was too late to interfere without jeopardizing the chances of salvaging what is left.

By intervening now, the United States wouldn't save China but might endanger future relations, Vandenberg argued. He also pointed out that the corrupt governing clique that runs the central government soaks up most U.S. aid intended for the Chinese people.

Pro - Communist Diplomats?

BRIDGES snapped back that members of the state department were sabotaging our foreign policy and demanded that pro - communists be flushed out of the service.

At this, Massachusetts' lean Leverett Saltonstall raised a cautioning hand, suggested it was unfair to question the motives of diplomatic personnel.

"If you had a general who commanded an army and lost a battle through incompetence, you would remove him," crackled Bridges. "If he lost by conspiring with the enemy, you would court - martial and probably shoot him. But the state department loses country after country and all you do is promote them."

Vandenberg said he didn't known of any pro - communists in the state department. Ohio's Senator Robert Taft suggested, however, that the people underneath are often biased and don't give the people on top a true picture.

Tempers flared up at the height of the debate, but cooled off by the time the meeting adjourned.

* * *

Bricker's Abrupt Shift.

OHIO'S statuesque Senator John Bricker has been posing as the great champion of the Negro by demanding that segregation be outlawed in all public houseing projects.

But what the public didn't realize is that Bricker toned down his own anti - segregation amendment, the minute it conflicted with the real estate lobby.

Bricker's original anti - segregation amendment would have cut off federal funds, including FHA loans, for any segregated housing project. But when the real estate boys saw this, they realized Bricker would cut off one of their most lucrative sources of money — loans from the Federal Housing Administration.

So they hotfooted it to Bricker's office and had him change his amendment so that it abolished segregation for public housing, but not FHA—financed housing.

NOTE — Bricker's real motive was to inject civil rights into the housing debate so it would turn the southern vote against public housing.

Truman Sore At Israel.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN, who frequently blows hot and cold over Palestine, has given a private spanking to the new republic of Israel. He is boiling mad at the Israeli government for what he considers an insult to the American ambassador to Israel, James G. McDonald.

McDonald reported to the President that during a recent interview with the Israeli foreign minister, Moshe Shertok, the minister spoke disparagingly of American aid to Israel.

This made Truman so mad he ordered the U.S. representative to the United Nations, Warren Austin, not to object when the United Nations pigeonholed Israel's application for U. N. membership.

Warren's silence shocked the Israeli because they were counting on wholehearted American support for their cause. As a result, President Weizmann is trying to patch things up during personal conferences with President Truman.

UN Agrees On Shortcake

By INEZ ROBB

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y. — In any language, strawberry shortcake is delicious, delightful and de-lovely.

This all-American delicacy is eaten in every language at the United Nations' cafeteria and lips are smacked over it in all accents. The United Nations, whatever it may eventually achieve internationally, already has wrought a universal dessert in that perennial American favorite — luscious crushed strawberries poured on rich biscuits and topped with a mound of whipped cream.

James L. Hever, manager of the cafeteria where the personnel of fifty-eight United Nations mingle and masticate daily, said that unless strawberry shortcake is on the menu at least once a week, he gets complaints in Chinese, Hindustani, Arabic, French, Italian, Oxford English, Turkish, Lithuanian and all rights reserved in the Scandinavian.

So far, strawberry shortcake has the distinction of being the only American institution which has not been subject to attack by the U.S.S.R.

Russian members of the U.N. secretariat eat it with the same mad abandon as do Iranians, Peruvians, Cantonese, South Africans, Liberians and Lebanese.

Fortunately for the amity of nations and the good of international digestion, the quick freeze industry has made strawberry shortcake a year-round pleasure for the United Nations.

Delegates to the U.N. have their own, small and exclusive dining room but when they are pressed for time, or on strawberry shortcake days, the master minds can be seen dining in the cafeteria with the hired hands.

Britain's Sir Alexander Cadogan, member of the Security Council, is as much a shortcake afficionado as is his American colleague, Warren Austin.

* * *

Roast Beef Popular.

ONLY one other item on the menu rivals shortcake in popularity. That is prime ribs of roast beef, of which there has been a vast shortage in most parts of the world in recent years, including the U.S.A.

Hever, to keep peace among nations, must have roast beef on the menu at least once a week, too. It's a great day in the morning when the U.S. underground carries word into every outlying office that both roast beef and strawberry shortcake are on the menu!

For better or for worse, both U.N. delegates and secretariat have to eat American plan and like it. The menu in both cafeteria and in the delegates' dining room is composed of sturdy American dishes, ranging from steaks and western omelets to fried chicken and corned beef and cabbage.

Delegates from the interior of Asia and the Gold Coast of Africa seem equally happy with broiled filet of mackerel, braised veal shank or ham steak with pineapple.

And, so far, no one ever has asked for chop sticks. All personnel at the United Nations, whether lowly messenger boy or lordly potentate from the Middle East, are notable consumers of tea, coffee and milk. They consume 700 gallons of coffee daily, an equal displacement of tea and 2,000 glasses of milk. There are many yogurt fanciers, too.

Two other American delicacies are widely popular and as likely to be consumed by the man in the turban as the man in the toupee. These are mince pie and pumpkin pie.

The cafeteria is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week. It usually serves about 7500 meals every day except Saturday and Sunday. It serves the usual three American meals, breakfast, luncheon and dinner.

But just to show that there is give-and-take in the American system, the cafeteria now serves a fourth meal by popular demand of the foreign secretariat. It serves tea each and every afternoon for the English, the Europeans and the far easterners who would die on the vine promptly at 4 p. m. if not given strong infusions of tea.

But strawberry shortcake is the great leveler. The way to a man's heart is through his stomach, and it is just conceivable that the way to world peace may be via the same detour.

ACCORDING to an item in New Agriculture magazine, a method of making organic matter into compost in five days time has been perfected by Joseph Frazer of Kaiser-Frazer Corporation and Eric Eweson, a bio-chemist.

Compost, on a mass-production basis, can be made from sludge of sewage, waste of canneries and fisheries, cornstalks, straw —anything that has once lived. A 3000 cubic foot digester is used, wherein are applied warmth, biological stimulants, and aeration, so that for the first time compost can be produced in large enough amounts, and quickly enough to compete with chemical fertilizers.

With the content of our food largely in the hands of the fertilizer makers, this makes interesting reading.

This month's Furrow has an interesting question—"Is Your Farm Growing or Shrinking in Size"? Experiments at University of Illinois since 1876 have shown that 100 acres planted continuously to corn, without soil treatment, has become equivalent to 29 acres in production of crops. Another 100 acres, planted in rotation of corn, oats, and red clover with manure, lime and phosphate added now yields equivalent to a 132-acre farm. Two deductions are reached: 1. Productivity of all farms without legumes in their cropping has declined. 2. All farms growing legumes either have lost or have increased their productivity.

Mrs. J. C. Stout Gives Talk On Grand Opera for Club

THE FINAL PROGRAM meeting of the year for members of the Tourist club was held Tuesday at the Women's Club with Mrs. Weldon Close serving as hostess.

Mrs. J. C. Stout gave the topic for the afternoon by presenting the story of the grand opera. She introduced her story with the reading of a paper written by Mrs. Mabel Greer on opera in general, telling the members that opera is something that has been created, and that we must learn to meet it on our own terms.

Mrs. Greer listed some of the amusing changes which have taken place from early opera in 1735 up to present day.

Some of the facts on opera in the United States were given by Mrs. Stout. The first production in America was in 1791 in New Orleans. There were no programs and the players were here and there in the audience. In 1849 opera reached the stage and it was in this year that Walter Damrasch was writing opera.

"'Carmen' is more popular with the young," said Mrs. Stout. She played the recording "Love Is Like a Woodbird" from this production.

The speaker stated that television can benefit opera by making it more interesting and people will be more curious to see the real shows.

Mrs. B. W. Forkner gave a report on radio taken from "Time" magazine. Her talk closed the program.

Mrs. Robert Morris was elected a new member of the club.

During the business session a friendship letter was read by Mrs. Dimon Herring from Mrs. Andrews in Scotland. The group voted to give a donation to the cancer fund.

The newly elected president. Mrs. S. D. Hoover, announced the following committees for next year: program, Mrs. R. W. Jones, Mrs. Malcolm Hartley, Mrs. Grant Ward and Mrs. W. L. Parkinson; membership, Mrs. G. J. Kochenderfer, Mrs. Ray Jenkins and Mrs. W. E. Post.

The next meeting will be a picnic on June 28 at the scout cabin near Bellville.

Rho Chapter Reveals Pals At Morrows

Mrs. Robert Morrow, 110 Blymyer avenue, was hostess to twenty-eight members of Rho chapter, Chi Sigma sorority, Tuesday evening at their Pollyanna party.

Bridge was the diversion of the evening with prizes going to Miss Donna Enlow and Miss Thelma Hursh. When a player became the "dummy" in bridge, they were presented a gift; thus revealing who their Pollyanna was.

The committee in charge of arrangements was composed of Mrs. Morrow, chairman, Miss Ruth Jaberg, Miss Margaret McFadden, Mrs. Paul Schmunk, Mrs. Raymond Schmunk and Mrs. Earl Herrick.

Lunch was served at a late hour at a table centered with an arrangement of floating yellow jonquils and lighted green tapers.

The next social for the group will be their annual spring formal dance. This will be held April 30 at the Richland Recreation Center with Nels Blocker and his orchestra providing the music.

The committees appointed for the dance were Mrs. Wilbur Upson, general chairman; publicity, Miss Jaberg, chairman, Miss Dorothy Crawford and Mrs. John Carothers; orchestra, Mrs. Vic Damcott, chairman, and Mrs. F. G. Conner; decorations, Mrs. Raymond Schmunk, chairman, Mrs. William Sites, Miss Ethel Heuss, and Mrs. Robert Betz; tickets, Mrs. William Black, chairman, Miss Mary Butler, Miss Hursh and Mrs. John Hall.

CALIFORNIA: State of Glamour Offers Diversion Year Around

By ANN SCHOENMAN

THE STATE OF GLAMOUR, California, is where we'll spend our two weeks with pay this time. We'll fly out to the "golden state" and have a full two weeks there.

No state in the United States — indeed, few of the most favored countries of the world — can boast of so delightful a climate as that of the valley lands of California. Low wind velocities and high percentage of sunshine are striking features. Two seasons, the wet and the dry, divide the year.

Southern California, is a vacationland like you've never seen before. It's a hundred playgrounds in one. Name practically any kind of vacation fun you can think of and you can have it there. Furthermore, you can have it any time of the year you please . . . it's a topsy-turvy land where you can ski in June and sun-tan in January.

Right now is the time of year which is not to be missed in California. This is wild-flower time. On the slopes of the mountains out of Bakersfield or in the pass at Beaumont and Banning you'll see enough poppies to fill every vase in America . . . and fields of lupine, Indian paint-brushes, and now and then a patch of dainty wild violets. Then, in the back country and desert, there'll be beautiful wildland blooms, cactus blossoms in soft reds and yellows . . . white daisies no bigger than a minute.

The beaches which Cabrillo first explored in 1542 and 1543 are now dotted with bathing beauties and luxurious summer resorts. Calm waters of the blue Pacific roll up on the sandy coast line which furnishes a playground for the great and the "ungreat."

This ocean which covers a third of the globe offers swimming, surf-boarding and diving through the gentle combers. You can search for odd-shaped sea shells — even moonstones — to take home for souvenirs.

If you're a fishing fan, you'll get corbina and spot-fin croakers in the surf, halibut and bass off the piers, and on the live-bait boats out of Newport, Balboa, San Diego and Santa Monica you'll tie into the big babies . . . yellowtail, albacore, tuna.

Did you ever see a jacksnipe dart to the edge of the water to root out a soft-shelled crab with his 5-inch beak . . . or a pelican tuck in his wings and dive-bomb a school of small fish? In Southern California these things are no more uncommon than a flying fish or a ride in a glass-bottomed boat off Santa Catalina.

For a definite contrast, California gives you the look at the peaks in the High Sierra of Inyo-Mono counties, including Mt. Whitney, highest in the United States.

This is "it" if you like to camp out, fish, hunt and just — get away from it all. You can fish in lakes far above the timber line . . . blue pools cut out of solid rock where you won't see another person for days on end. You can stay at rustic resorts, enjoy the high, dry altitude and fly-fish fast-running streams.

Or, if you like, there's the oldest living things in the world the Sequoia gigantea in the Sequoia-Kings Canyon. These trees are loftier than a 30-story building and older than ancient Greece. In Yosemite Valley are more high waterfalls than any other place in the world. Yosemite, dropping 2,425 feet in two enormous leaps; for honeymooners the Bridal Veil, 620 feet of shimmering mist: Ribbon, a sheer plummet of 1,602 feet.

Not to be forgotten when traveling through California are the great deserts. Southern California has two deserts, the Colorado and the Mojave. As deserts go, they are still babies. They haven't yet been worn to the flatness they will have a million years from now. Today they are filled with jagged mountains, dry lakes, deep chasms and rock jungles.

These are just a few of the offerings of our own glorious California.

"I believe in giving credit where credit belongs, and that is to Rennel," writes Mr. L. Erdman, 36 Parkway Drive, Willoughby, Ohio. Bitterly-Fought Oleo Bill Up for House Vote Late Today

Measure to Fight Slums Given OK

Redevelopment Plan Approved

By REED SMITH

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Yellow oleo — fighting words to rural legislators — echoed in the Ohio House of Representatives today.

The Senate-passed bill to permit manufacture and sale of colored oleo in Ohio comes to a vote late this afternoon with its fate in doubt. Ruralites who like butter better say they'll defeat it.

Urbanites who say housewives are tired of coloring oleo in their kitchens claim the measure has a better chance than two years ago. A similar bill then was defeated after passing the Senate.

The proposal had a close call in the Senate early last March. It first was defeated but later reconsidered and passed 18 to 14, with only one affirmative vote to spare.

The bill came before the legislature through initiative petition. Sponsors got more than 200,000 signatures although they needed only 70,000. If the bill is beaten, they can put it up to voters at the November election by getting 70,000 more valid signatures.

The House Tuesday gave its approval for the first time to an urban redevelopment measure. The vote was 120-8. It now goes to the Senate where similar proposals have been approved during two sessions only to be lost in the House.

The measure bearing names of 16 sponsors includes no provision for public housing. That is covered in a separate bill. Gov. Frank J. Lausche asked the House Taxation committee today for quick approval of the public housing measure.

The redevelopment bill requires a general municipal plan for improving blighted areas. Such sections must have more than half their buildings unfit before they can be condemned for redevelopment.

Individual owners can keep their property by contracting to improve it according to the municipal plan. Cities can pay for slum areas taken by issuing bonds or through a special tax levy. Legislators eliminated a provision for financing by special assessment on property owners benefited.

Municipalities could hold the property six years before selling to private or political subdivisions for redevelopment. Cities can not do redevelopment.

Co-sponsor Norton Niepp (D-Lucas) said cities were "merely asking rural members to give us the tools with which to clean up our slum districts which breed disease and crime."

Outlines CROP Plan

Organization leaders from six counties met at the St. John's Evangelical and Reform church in Bucyrus, Tuesday afternoon to hear State C. R. O. P. Director James Wyker outline the 1949 Christian Rural Overseas Program for this area.

District chairman, Rev. Ivan Immel, St. John's church, Whetstone near Bucyrus, invited leaders from Marion, Morrow, Erie, Huron, Crawford and Richland counties to the meeting.

Plans were outlined to organize each county into a workable organization.

As explained at the meeting, the actual crop, Wheat in the case of Richland county, would not be shipped overseas, but elevators would pay cash to CROP for the grain contributed by farmers. This cash would be used for buying grain elsewhere and for furthering the program.

Rev. R. W. McNary, the 1948, Richland county chairman, will call a county-township meeting in the near future for the purpose of organizing the solictation of crops for the program.

Those from Richland County attending yesterday's meeting were C. N. McGrew, County Extension Agent; Rev. John C. Melchert, Mansfield; Paul L. White, Richland County Farm Bureau education director; Rev. Harlan J. Miller, Shelby and Rev. Frederick Abair, Sacred Heart seminary, Shelby.

Missing Child Found

Eleven-year-old Doris Mosley Kale who disappeared from her Miller street home last Saturday has been located at her mother's home in Pittsburgh, Mansfield police said today.

Meanwhile, efforts were launched by County Prosecutor Harold Lutz to have the child returned to Mr. and Mrs. James R. Kale of 204 Miller street. The Kales were given legal custody of the child by Common Pleas Court Judge G. E. Kalbfliesch in 1946.

Lutz said he has written to the Commonwealth attorney at Pittsburgh for release of the child to the Kale family here. Pittsburgh police notified local officers the child was found at the home of her real mother, Mrs. Betty Allen Mosley in Pittsburgh. The child was taken away from her mother during a divorce action in Common Pleas court three years ago

Mrs. Kale told The News-Journal today that she and her husband have kept the child since she was three weeks old. Mrs. Kale is the half-sister of the child's mother.

Enters Best Bond Bids

The Citizens National Bank, Mansfield, entered the lowest bid for two Richland county township bond issues Prosecutor Harold Lutz said yesterday. The sale of the bonds will not be made, Lutz said, until he has the opportunity to check all the details.

Washington township received bids April 23 for $20,000 worth of bonds for funds for new fire fighting equipment and the construction of a fire station. There were seven bidders for the ten $2,000 bonds.

There were five bidders for the same amount of bonds advertised by Monroe township and for the purchase of fire fighting equipment.

The Citizens National's bid was one and three-fourth per cent with a premium of $51.50 for each issue.

Emerson Bletz, clerk of the Washington township council, said no decision as to the type of equipment to be purchased had been made. He said the only specification set is that it be suitable for rural fire fighting.

Scientists Confront Red Agent

Lomanitz Refuses To Give Answers

WASHINGTON — (INS) — House spy hunters yesterday brought two wartime atomic scientists and a communist party official face-to-face at a dramatic closed door hearing and asked if they knew each other.

One scientist, Giovanni Rossi Lomanitz, refused to reply on constitutional grounds. The second, Joseph Weinberg, declared that "to the best of his recollection," he never had met the communist official, Steve Nelson, of Pittsburgh.

Nelson, a key figure in the House unAmerican Activities committee's "scientist" case last fall, also refused to answer questions on grounds of possible self-incrimination

Committee investigator Louis E. Russell told newsmen after the closed hearing that both Nelson and Lomanitz, a professor at Fisk university, Nashville, Tenn., also refused to say whether they were members of the communist party on constitutional grounds.

Russell said that Weinberg, now teaching at the University of Minnesota, told the committee that he was not sure whether he had ever met Nelson or not but that he did not think so.

Weinberg, who with Lomanitz was an employe at the University, was not questioned at yesterdays session.

Rep Wood (D) Ga., chairman of the House group, announced that all four would be called for further questioning on May 11

Russell said that Lomanitz also refused to tell the committee "whether he had ever recruited certain individuals for the communist party."

The committee investigator also reported Lomanitz said that in his opinion membership in the party did not constitute disloyalty to the United States

Texas City Blast Survivors Blame U. S. For Explosion

HOUSTON, TEX — (UP) — Survivors seeking $200,000,000 for injuries suffered two years ago in the Texas City disaster yesterday blamed the federal government for the tragedy.

One mammoth trial to determine the outcome of 300 separate damage suits against the government got underway here yesterday before Federal Judge Thomas M Kennerly Two hundred lawyers were involved in the action

The explosion of the French ship Grandcamp, loaded with ammonium nitrate, killed 576 persons in the Golf Coast boom town About 4,000 were injured, some permanently

The plaintiffs charged specifically

1 The United States produced the ammonium nitrate that caused the death dealing blasts

2 The government failed to make known explosive possibilities of the cargo

Thomas Fletcher, one of the plaintiffs' attorneys, prepared a 35 - page typewritten argument for the court It was handed to assistant U S Attorney General Joseph Cash, who had failed to gain postponement of the hearing to allow the government time "to complete its data."

A motion by Cash for judgment in favor of the government was ignored.

A bookcase full of evidence brought in by counsel for the plaintiffs indicated the hearing might drag on for weeks

New British Liner Sinks

RIO DE JANEIRO — (INS) — The British luxury liner Magdalena broke in two and sank yesterday while being towed to harbor after grounding on a sunken reef.

The skeleton crew abandoned ship before she went under

The liner, the newest ship of the British Royal Mail lines, ran aground as she was heading for Britain on the return leg of her maiden voyage. All 350 passengers were removed and taken to Rio De Janeior.

A skeleton crew remained on the liner and worked pumps during the night to check the flood of water pouring through a gaping hole in the ship's hull, while Brazilian naval ships and salvage vessels stood by.

Reporter Faced Death For 'Untrue' Stories

By GEORGE VINE

SHANGHAI—(INS)—I have just spent the worst twenty hours of my life.

Yesterday, along with Graham Jenkins, Reuters correspondent in Shanghai, I was brought to the Nationalist garrison headquarters on charges of contravention of marital law.

I was accused of "rumor-mongering" because the North China Daily News printed a Reuters report alleged to be untrue.

Jenkins and I were promptly informed that under marital law —imposed three days ago—the only penalty for our purported offense was execution.

Upon my release today, I shuddered upon learning that two Chinese were shot by a firing squad yesterday for the identical reason.

The worst part of the whole affair was the slowness of British officialdom here in going to work. I learned later of their bland assurance that the Chinese would "never dare" execute a British subject.

The "loss of face" is still a vital factor in Chinese relations.

And the British have lost plenty in the last week because of the Yangtze incident, in which our warships were shelled by the communists.

This prestige, I fear, will be unregainable now that we are all but chased out of Shanghai.

As for the story which appeared in the North China Daily News and led to my arrest, I learned that the same story appeared in two other English language dailies here, but that the editors were not detained.

5 doctors prove this plan breaks the laxative habit

If you take laxatives regularly—here's how you can stop!

Because 5 New York doctors now have proved you may break the laxative habit. And establish your natural powers of regularity. Eighty-three per cent of the cases tested did it. So can you.

Stop taking whatever you now take. Instead: Every night for one week take 2 Carter's Pills. Second week—one each night. Third week—one every other night. Then—nothing!

Every day: drink eight glasses of water; set a definite time for regularity.

Five New York doctors proved this plan can break the laxative habit.

How can a laxative break the laxative habit? Because Carter's Pills "unblock" the lower digestive tract and from then on let it make use of its own natural powers.

Further—Carter's Pills contain no habit-forming drugs.

Break the laxative habit . . . with Carter's Pills . . . and be regular naturally.

When worry, overeating, overwork make you irregular temporarily—take Carter's Pills temporarily. And never get the laxative habit.

Get Carter's Pills at any drugstore for 33c today. You'll be grateful the rest of your life.

Farmers Approve New Cleaning Method For Milk-House Chores

Many dairy farmers in this area have found a faster, more thorough method of cleaning milking equipment — keeping the milk house spanking clean — by use of "Wetalene," revolutionary new cleaning agent.

As suggested by Wetalene Laboratories, Inc., Columbus, O., the usual procedure of disassembly washing of milking machine parts is done more thoroughly due to the sterilizing action of "Wetalene."

Economical, too, a "Wetalene" washing solution calls for only one heaping tablespoon of the cleanser to three gallons of water, heated to usual temperature, 120-130 degrees F. By drawing solution into the milking pail, then scrubbing each separate part of the machine, new sanitary conditions are achieved in less time than ever before

Walls, pails, cans and floor can be kept sparkling clean and sanitary through frequent "Wetalene" cleanings. One tablespoon to a gallon of warm water removes dirt in half the time from walls and floor because there's no need to rinse!

Just as popular in the farm home as in the milk house, "Wetalene" is being widely used by farm wives who prefer this new and faster household cleaner. The "no-rinse" action of "Wetalene" gets floors, painted walls and woodwork washed in half the time. And it can be used for laundering, dishes, upholstered furniture, windows — wherever water is used to clean!

"Wetalene" is sold locally: 23 cents for 1-lb. carton; 61 cents for 3 lbs.; 8 lbs.

Ohio Farmers Urged to Increase Hay, Pasture Acreage

More Small Grains Can Be Planted

Slight Cut In Corn Suggested

WASHINGTON — (AP) — In the interest of conservation, Ohio farmers are urged to step up their hay and pasture acreage about 32 per cent, add another 11 per cent to lands now in small grains and cut slightly their corn-soybean acreages.

These recommendations are made by the agriculture department in a comprehensive soil conservation study of corn belt and lakes states.

The survey estimated that Ohio farmers could safely put an additional 10 to 15 per cent of their potential cropland under cultivation without damage to the soil.

The department reported that the state has some 13,920,000 acres suitable for cropland and another 4,188,000 fit for pasture and forest.

Of the 13,920,000 acres rated fit for crops in Ohio, 8,257,000 are not considered in need of supporting soil conservation practices such as contour farming, strip-cropping and terracing.

Of the remaining 5,622,000 acres, the department estimated 1,624,000 should be contour farmed, 3,502,000 strip-cropped and 536,000 acres terraced in Ohio.

For acreage not thus treated, the department recommended rotation of crops to maintain soil fertility and prevent disastrous erosion. It of course favors rotation on all croplands.

Ohio appears to stand in a somewhat better position than many mid-western states in the matter of need for terracing and contour farming.

Of the eight states studied, Ohio has the smallest amount of land recommended for terracing. Only 11.7 per cent of its cropland is considered to need contour farming, while big farm states like Iowa and Minnesota are reported to require such methods on 23 per cent of their arable soils.

But because it has many hilly, rolling sections, Ohio does need a relatively high proportion of strip-cropping to block erosion. The survey estimated that 25 per cent of all Ohio cropland should be cultivated by the strip method.

This compared with 40 per cent recommended for Wisconsin, 16 per cent for Michigan, 13 per cent for Minnesota, 11 per cent for Iowa and nine per cent for Illinois.

The survey cautioned particularly against Ohio and other states increasing the amount of cropland sowed to row crops like corn and soybeans because they usually are most conducive to soil erosion.

PLASTIC OVERCOATS—The far-reaching effects of plastics on farm products are graphically illustrated in the above photo as Jack Gaylord of Hollywood examines vegetables wearing plastic overcoats.

Efficiency Needed to Offset Drop In Farm's Cash Income

COLUMBUS — Farmers who are expecting lower feed costs to help them hold or increase their profit margins in 1949 are in for a rude shock!

Guy Miller, extension farm management specialist at Ohio State University, has completed a study which indicates that a possible 20 per cent drop in income this year, along with a 20 per cent decrease in feed costs, will mean at least a 50 per cent average drop in net cash operating income for most Ohio farmers unless they radically trim operating costs.

"Farm price declines in recent months have wiped out much of the so-called 'price advantage' farmers have had for the 7 - year period during and since the war," Miller commented.

"Farm production costs are less flexible than the price of farm products, when prices are rising, margins are wide; but when prices turn downward, as they have now, production costs tend to remain high."

If prices of things farmers sell in 1949 drops 20 per cent and production costs except feed, stay at present levels, Miller said, farmers will have to "farm well if they are to break even."

Maintaining a satisfactory farm income in 1949, he stated, calls for a positive program, which involves: obtaining a high degree of labor and machinery efficiency, boosting production per unit, marketing at favorable times and making enterprises fewer in number but larger.

Trucks to Halt In Weight Fight

AKRON — (INS) — Ohio members of the United Truck Owners of America, incorporated, were to start a 48-hour truckers' holiday today in protest against the state's weight limit laws.

The truckers voted at a meeting last night in Akron to park along Ohio's roadsides for two days as a protest that Ohio's laws on weights are discriminatory against the small trucker.

William R. McClenathen, national representative of the UTOA, said hundreds of truckers were expected to join in the demonstration.

To prepare stuffed celery for a party, mash cream cheese with blue cheese, thin with a little cream, flavor with finely grated onion and tabasco sauce. Wash the celery, trim off the leaves, cut stalks in two-inch lengths and stuff with the cheese mixture. Sprinkles with a little paprika and arrange attractively on a serving plate.

'High-Power' Manure Used

Ever hear of "super-manure?"

Soil specialists at the University of Wisconsin have developed a system for holding the free ammonia in manure, which might otherwise be lost by evaporation.

It is done by adding 25 to 30 pounds of superphosphate fertilizer to each spreader load of manure.

What superphosphate actually does is increase the phosphorous content of the manure. The addition of 25 pounds of superphosphate to a ton of manure doubles its phosporous content.

Many farmers report this "super-manure" is better than two loads of the untreated type.

FIGHT POSTAGE RAISE

The National Grange is throwing all its strength into the fight at Washington to prevent the big raise in second class postage rates, whose enactment will seriously cripple magazines and newspapers in their use of the mails. Such a curtailment would seriously affect rural areas, dependent upon the mails for their reading matter rather than through news dealers, the Grange contends.

1,465 Checks Are Due In County Soon

AAA Payments To Total $34,500

By WINTHROP RUGGLES

The 1,465 Richland county farmers who were signed up under the 1948 AAA program can expect their checks in the next few days, Guy L. Taylor, Richland county AAA chairman, said today.

The government has allocated $34,540 for distribution in Richland county, Taylor said, making an average payment to each farmer of $23.78.

Taylor said applications for payment were sent to Columbus nearly two months ago and that farmers who had their applications in then should be receiving their checks soon. Others, who have not made application for last year's payments, should come into the AAA office as soon as possible he added.

Approved practices for the 1949 crop year, have just been approved and notices to that effect have been mailed to the 1,400 Richland county farmers participating.

Leading the agricultural conservation practices for this year is the spreading of lime, with the application of superphosphate on pastures running a close second.

Taylor said very little lime has been delivered this year by the Triple—A's 25 lime suppliers, because of adverse weather conditions, but delivery prices are now on file at the AAA office for both lime and superphosphate and purchase orders are also available.

Commenting on the U. S. Department of Agriculture's recent announcement of wheat acreage allotments this fall, Taylor said American farmers were called upon to feed much of the world in the past few years, but since many of the foreign countries have been rehabilitated in the past year and are now self-supporting, allotments may be installed if the nation's wheat stockpile is in excess of anticipated needs.

The Department of Agriculture is asking for 65,000,000 acres of wheat in 1950 to supply 725,000,000 bushels for U. S. consumption, 400,000,00 for export, and 340,000,000 bushels for a safety margin, Taylor said.

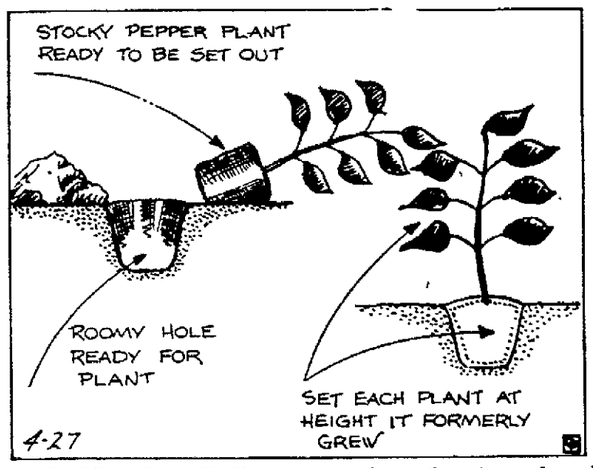
Today's Garden Graph

Peppers Rate Spot In Garden



By DEAN HALLIDAY
(Central Press Association)

Peppers were once classed as a minor vegetable but today they rate a place in even the smallest vegetable garden.

They have also gained in importance in our daily diet since they are high in vitamin A, B-2 and C.

As few people grow their own peppers from seed, young plants can always be purchased at the proper time for setting them out into the garden.

Buy stocky plants about five inches tall, ones that haven't been half-smothered by crowding. Dig a roomy hole for each plant, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

Set each plant at the height it formerly grew, as illustrated, and hold it there while you pour in a pint of water and this sinks away. Draw dry soil over the roots and shade with shingles or newspaper tents (edge held by soil or stones) for a couple of days. That's all there is to planting.

A moderate amount of manure or a complete fertilizer can be hoed into the soil when the plants are about eight inches in height. Repeat this feeding process when the first fruits set. This will help to promote rapid growth and early maturing of the fruit. Keep the fertilizer three to four inches away from the stem of each plant.

Peppers are comparatively free from the attack of insects. At times, however, peppers are attacked by the potato aphis and the potato beetle, the spinach aphis and the flea beetle. These pests can be controlled by dusting the plants with rotenone.

Blames Husband In 'Hypnotic' Slaying

LOS ANGELES — (UP) — A 24-year-old mother of three children pinned her hopes for a light sentence today on the report of a psychiatrist who said she committed murder under the semi-hypnotic influence of her husband.

The gaunt, bespectacled woman pleaded guilty yesterday to the slaying of Winlock Dean, 44, owner of a trailer park where the Wigneys lived. Earlier, Mrs. Wigney had pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity.

Urges Farmers To Insure All Hired Helpers

With the season of stepped-up farm activity already begun, C. N. McGrew, Richland county Agriculture Extension Agent, today warned farmers of the risk they take in hiring labor without proper coverage by the State Workmen's Compensation insurance.

If a farm hand is killed or even just injured at work, the farmer hiring the man is liable to a law suit to pay the hospital bills and —or death benefits to the widow, McGrew said.

The insurance is open to all farmers, regardless of the number of men employed on his farm. It is compulsory for all farmers to carry the insurance if he employs three or more workers.

Additional information and the benefits obtainable by using this state insurance plan are available at the county Extension office in the court house.

Award Tile Contract

County commissioners have awarded a contract for supplying tile for improving Hetler ditch in Butler township to the Hancock Brick and Tile company of Findlay on a low bid of $579.98.

At the same time, commissioners rejected a combined bid calling for both labor and materials because the bid was higher than the estimate. A. J. Gage and Son, of Mansfield, had offered to supply the tile and do the work for $1,876. The estimate was $1,278.

Commissioners decided to purchase the tile from the Findlay firm and have the county engineering department do the work. Improvement of 2,000 feet of open ditch and putting in 800 feet of 15-inch tile is called for.

Would Test Program

Brannan Asks 'Trial Run' On Hogs

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Secretary of agriculture Brannan told congress yesterday he would like immediate authority to use the hog market for a "trial run" of the administration's proposed new farm program.

Meanwhile, he fired back at those who have labelled this suggested program "socialism" or "regimentation."

The program stresses cheaper food for consumers. It would let many food products, like pork, sell at what the market would bring. Then the government would pay the farmers the difference between what their crop brought and what the government established as a fair price.

This differs broadly from the present program which requires the government to purchase or make loans on surplus farm production to hold the surplus off the market and thereby prevent undue price declines.

Brannan already had said it is likely that the government soon will have to start buying hogs to support the price.

During a session of the house agriculture committee, now studying the administration new farm program, Rep. Worley (D-Tex) asked the secretary if he would like for congress to give him immediate authority for a trial run of the new plan on hogs.

"I would welcome it," Brannan replied.

Earlier Brannan said a bill covering the general program is ready and will be submitted to Congress as soon as budget officials have approved it.

All-American Male Beginning To Take Over Women's Home Duties

THERE IS a new All-America male on the scene. Have you noticed him?

He isn't exactly the kind of man his father was. And certainly he isn't the woman his mother was. But in many ways he is like them both, and in some ways he is more talented than either.

For there's been a big, big change in the man of the house. Father's a man of parts today. He can do most anything about the home—and does.

Half a century ago father, quite often, was a tobacco-chewing, independent rooster who ruled his woolden castle like an army top sergeant. About all he did around the place was eat, sleep, grunt behind the daily newspaper he read in his easy chair, and carry out coal ashes in the winter.

His spare time he spent at a saloon arguing about the government. He didn't talk much at home, because what was there for him and the old lady to talk about? He was interested in sports, business and politics. Mama was interested in raising the kids and running the manor.

Papa was a stern figure to the kids—the man who whopped them across a bare rear with a razor strop when mama complained they had done wrong. And Pap didn't fret about the children overmuch. After all, there were a lot of them around. In those days parents weren't supposed to worry much about the kids anyway. The kids were expected to grow up and start worrying about taking care of their parents.

All this is changed.

The modern husband is a real all-American male. There has been no husband like him in history, and the American woman is the envy of the women of every other country in the world—for having him.

Daddy takes an interest in everything about the house now. He insists on going with mama to the store to pick out the drapes and furniture. And don't try to tell him he doesn't know the difference between fuchsia and heppiewhite. He does.

The cookstove is no longer a feminine empire. Once they put gadgets in the kitchen and cut down the hours papa spent at his job, he was bound to turn to cooking. Today he'll debate with man, woman or child on how much garlic to put in the salad or why he makes the best shish kebab.

He not only brags he bakes better rolls than his dear old mother did. He's insulted if you don't think his kartoffelklosesse are better than any the kaiser ever ate. Don't weary him by giving him a shotgun for Christmas. He wants a box with 24 different kinds of spices.

And mama no longer can raise the baby without papa's helping hand. He knows all about formulas, how to ease out an infant's burp, how to tie a running bowline knot in a diaper. If his kid gets a nose bleed, the old man wants to gallop him off to a psychiatrist to be sure his mite isn't developing dementia praecox.

Yes, manhood really is in flower now in the American home. The new type husband can do everything from barbering the lawn to selecting a Picasso print or advising mama on a better hair-do.

But sometimes mama feels she's overeducated her man. She no longer is sole boss in the kitchen and the nursery. This all-American male can get underfoot.

And that is when mama has a yearning to sally out to the nearest saloon—and talk politics.

Concert To Build Band Fund

Senior High Musicians To Play Tuesday

The Senior High School Marching Band and orchestra will appear in their annual spring concert next Tuesday evening in Senior High auditorium, and the 80 student musicians today looked forward to entertaining a capacity audience.

Tickets for the concert went on sale today with an intensified ticket canvas scheduled to get under way tomorrow. Band members, operating under a "block plan," will call on their neighbors and friends tomorrow and Friday in order to insure a good crowd for the concert.

Proceeds from the concert will go into the band's instrument and uniform fund. New uniforms are planned for the band and some of the proceeds will be earmarked for that fund, J. Merton Holcombe, director, explained.

"The Tyger Booster club to which Mansfield individuals, industry and business contributed so generously, really went all-out with support for the band last season, and I believe the band shows during the football season provided a good example of what proper equipment and public support meahs to the fine group of young musicians we have at Senior high," Holcombe said, and he added:

"Band uniforms are expensive and would require more than the Booster club could possibly afford, particularly in view of the fact that the Booster club supports not only the band but a great many other athletic and student activities.

"Possibly we will require help from some other source before we get new uniforms, but it is my desire and the desire of our band that we contribute as much as we can in the way of starting and bolstering the uniform fund."

Members of the Band Parents' club are assisting Holcombe in staging the concert.

Band and orchestra members have been practicing for weeks on the concert numbers to be presented at the Tuesday performance which will open at 8 p. m.

The program includes solos, novelty numbers and modern and classical selections by both organizations.

Car Damaged By Striking Street Dig-Up

A Mansfielder's 1948 convertible was damaged early today when the car struck a reportedly unlighted dig-up on South Main street near Prospect street, police said.

Robert D. Scanlon, 28, of 237 Ruth avenue, told officers the front of his auto was extensively damaged when he hit the dig-up at 2:14 a. m. Scanlon said there were no lights on the pile of dirt when the accident occurred. Police corroborated his statement by saying the lanterns were not lighted when they arrived.

However, witnesses to the accident said the lanterns were burning a short while before the mishap. Scanlon was not injured.

Police said the dig-up was 100 feet north of Prospect street on South Main and water department workers were repairing a break in a service line at the spot.

HORSE GETS CAUGHT ON RAILROAD BRIDGE—A wandering horse (left) hangs suspended by his hind legs for several hours near Kingsport, Tenn., after falling through a railroad bridge. A steam driven crane (right) was pressed into service and managed to free the animal, but poor Dobbin died several hours after his rescue.

1,600 See Jaycee Show

Proceeds Help Safety Program

Approximately 1,600 saw two performances of the "Best Is Yet to Come" vaudeville show last night in the Senior high school auditorium.

Many persons waited in the rain while the house was emptied through rear exits following the first performance.

Next month's show will be the last in the series sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Producers of the shows have decided to end the performances because of union demands for increased pay which, it was explained, would necessitate boosting admission prices.

The Jaycees will use proceeds of last night's shows to finance purchase of safety tape for bicycles in the city to enable motorists to see the cycles at night.

The Jaycees passed up their "honor citizen" selection last night because the prospective "citizen" was out of the city and had not accepted the honor, Jaycee officials explained. They said no one is publicly awarded the honor until he agrees to accept.

Last night's performances, topped by Buddy Moreno and his band, got an enthusiastic reception from the crowds.

Popular with the audiences were Cy Landry, loose-jointed comedian; Dietrich and Diane, whose life-like puppets perform in "black light", and Beverly with "Hank the Mule."

"Hank", who turned out to be a small but muscular girl, cavorted on the stage and in the audience, climbing over the backs of seats.

Burl Williams, large - sized comedian with an amusing line of patter, played various musical instruments and finally three clarinets at once.

Moreno and blonde vocalist Perry Mitchell (a girl) got a big hand with the "Pussy Cat Song."

The local talent artists last night were Joseph Pival, violinist, and Mrs. Margaret Hall, who accompanied him on the piano.

OPS Brings Lowe to City

Joy A. Herbert, vice president and division manager of the Ohio Public Service company, today announced the promotion of Allen W. Lowe to assistant production superintendent of the Mansfield Melco power plant. Lowe will work under the direct supervision of Hugh D. Crawford, production superintendent.

Lowe comes here from Lorain where he has been general foreman of the Edgewater generating station. Prior to his employment in Lorain, Lowe was plant engineer at the Lake Park generating station in Alliance.

Lowe started in the electric light and power business in 1937, first being employed by the Tennessee Light and Power company at Bristol, Tenn.

He is married and has a daughter, 16, and a son, 12. He will reside in this community after the close of the school term.

Scottish Rite to Fete Fathers, Daughters

The Richland County Scottish Rite association will hold a father-daughter banquet and entertainment in the Masonic Temple banquet room Friday at 6:30 p. m.

Members not having daughters will be supplied a Rainbow Girl "daughter" for the event, according to Earl W. Deitrick, secretary of the association.

B. M. Banks, dinner chairman, announced that reservations for the dinner still may be made by calling him, 3198-1, or Deitrick, 3072-1.

Players' Mystery Holds Audience

By ANN SCHOENMAN

Mansfielders sat on the edges of their seats last night as a murder, shrouded in intrigue and gossip, unfolded before their eyes on the John Simpson stage.

The plot belonged to "Laura," produced by Community Players of Mansfield. But the 750 persons who braved drenching rain to attend the show seemed to take personal interest in seeing justice done.

They "oh-ed" as quick flashes of the unfolding plot were shown. They laughed in relief at the bright snatches of comedy. They tensed as a second murder seemed imminent. And they screamed as a shot rang out to clinch the plot in the final scene.

The audience wholeheartedly agreed that H. H. Schettler, director of the play, had added another success to his growing list.

Last production of the 1948-'49 season of the Players, "Laura" will be presented again today at 8:15 p. m. in the auditorium.

Marguerite McMullen in the role of "a girl" gave an excellent portrayal as she added to the confusion of the mystery of the death of Laura Hunt.

SHARE HONORS

Sharing honors were Harold McCuen, as the egotistical, self-centered Waldo Lydecker, and Ruhland Isaly who as the persevering detective Mark McPherson ferreted out the murderer in the last few tense moments of the play.

Fred Pearson as the suave Shelby Carpenter, haunted by the memory of the murder night, turned in a well-conceived performance.

The sparse moments of light comedy were enjoyed by the audience through the excellent portrayal of the Irish maid, Bessie Clary by Shirley Anson. Miss Anson drew several bursts of applause throughout the show.

Probably one of the most difficult roles taken in the show was the teen-aged role played by Lloyd Lewis, Senior high school junior, who carried his characterization of the love-sick youth, Danny Dorgan, with ease and understanding.

Marguerite McConnell, as the neurotic Mrs. Dorgan who tries to pull her son away from the influence of the worldly Laura Hunt, turned in one of the finest character performances of many seasons.

Even the one-line role of Bruce McGinty as Olsen was pointed up by McGinty's embellishment of the character.

A special note of interest to the audience was the life-sized portrait of "Laura" done by one of Mansfield's most outstanding young portrait painters, Betsy Cave McGinty.

Car Injures Pedestrian

A young woman pedestrian was injured late yesterday when struck by a car at the corner of Park avenue west and South Mulberry street.

Police said both the pedestrian and the motorist violated traffic signals. Neither was charged.

Miss Nancy Blue, 31, 291 West Third street, suffered bruises on the legs and hands when struck by a car driven by Richard R. Bonebrake, 17, Ashland R. D. 1. Miss Blue was treated at General hospital and released.

Police said Miss Blue told them she started crossing South Mulberry from the southeast corner on the green light and that the light had just changed to amber caution when she was struck by Bonebrake's car. Bonebrake, traveling west on Park avenue, attempted a left turn into South Mulberry when he struck Miss Blue.

Bonebrake told officers he was making his turn as the light turned green.

Fighter to Head Foremen

Dean Fighter was elected president of the Westinghouse Foremen's club last night when the group met for the last time this season. Harold Faber is retiring president.

Other officers elected were E. L. Lown, vice president; Clifford D. Heaton, secretary-treasurer; and Elmer Croushore, Guy Smith, and John Roman, members of the board of control.

J. A. Baubie, director of public relations, Pittsburgh, discussed the company's promotion program.

J. H. Ashbaugh, vice president, of Mansfield, gave a history of the local plant.

The Westinghouse quartet from Pittsburgh sang for the group. The quartet also sang at the Mansfield Rotary club meeting yesterday noon.

The group, known as the Northcentral Alumni association, also elected Mrs. T. H. Grafton, of Ashland, as secretary-treasurer at its dinner meeting Monday night at Hop-Off Inn, west of Ashland. Prof. C. D. Morehead, of the college romance languages department, addressed the group.

Miss Carolyn Bond of Shelby and other alumni from Ashland, Wooster, Rittman and Loudonville attended the dinner meeting.

Expert Reports On Survey

Objects to Boarding Homes

A report prepared by the mid-western director of the National Probation and Parole association expresses "surprise" that Richland county does not have a courtroom for probate matters or for the trial of adults in juvenile delinquency cases.

The report was received today by Probate-Juvenile Judge Stuart H. Cramer. It was prepared by Hugh P. Reed, midwestern director of the association, who was here for a consultation visit for three days last week.

Reed's report said he was pleased to see that juvenile cases were conducted in "an informal atmosphere" in the judge's office, but he was "surprised" at the lack of a courtroom.

Reed said the court here was the first he had ever visited in the middle west that does not have a courtroom. "A courtroom should be provided," his report added.

Judge Cramer has asked the county commissioners to vacate their offices for use as a courtroom. Commissioners have not acted.

The report affirms an earlier oral report to Judge Cramer. His report said quarters on the third floor of the main building of the Children's home "could be converted into a very acceptable detention home."

It added that with a good intake and orientation program the needs of detained children "could be met without damaging the program in the remainder of the home."

"The location is isolated and could be remodeled so that it could be easily supervised," the report said. He added that the two large rooms in the back of the building, and two bedrooms could be converted into a boys' section and a girls' section.

A number of recommendations for alterations were listed both for security reasons and for fire protection. Judge Cramer said he would submit the report to the Child Welfare board for its consideration.

Reed said he could not recommend a program calling for detaining younger children or less seriously delinquent children in subsidized boarding homes.

COMMENDS JUDGE

Reed's report said he found Judge Cramer has exercised rigid controls over use of detention, "with which we heartily agree. You have detained only those children who are in need of security detention."

The report said that during 1948, there were 70 children detained by the court, with a ration of about two boys to one girl. In addition, 25 boys and four girls were detained by the sheriff in the county jail and approximately 60 children by police in the city jail. It adds that with few exceptions, those children held in jail were in the 16 and 17 year old group.

On the basis of the number of children detained, Reed recommended a detention home with a capacity for four boys and two girls.

Employment of a full-time secretary to handle case records and case accounting were recommended so that the probation officers could devote all their time to the professional phases of their work.

Also recommended was at least one-half time clerical service for paper work. Reed told Judge Cramer the probation office in which the two probation officers and their secretary work was inadequate.
